SOCIOLOGY MAJOR

The Sociology major introduces the student to classic and contemporary literature in the study of social interaction and provides a basis for a wide range of career options. Quantitative and qualitative research methods are used for analysis and provide foundation for graduate and professional training in sociology, social work, organizational management, and allied fields. Opportunities are given to practice critical thinking, oral and written communication skills, and applied experiences. Internships in the metropolitan Chicago area are strongly encouraged. An additional focus of the department is the development of biblical advocacy in the promotion of social justice and equity.

Requirements

Along with specific requirements for any major, all students in the Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science degree programs must meet all general education (https://catalog.wheaton.edu/undergraduate/academic-policies-information/academic-requirements-general-education/) and graduation requirements (https://catalog.wheaton.edu/undergraduate/academic-policies-information/academic-requirements-general-education/#text) under a single catalog.
