

ASIAN STUDIES CERTIFICATE

Overview

Coordinator, Hanmee Kim

Asia stands as the largest and most populous continent. It is the site of diverse and rich cultural and intellectual traditions, as well as political and economic dynamics that have profound global impact. The significance of this region has only become more pronounced in recent decades within our increasingly interdependent and interrelated world.

The Asian Studies certificate equips students to pursue a deeper understanding of this complex and relevant place that is Asia. The certificate has two main objectives:

1. To pursue an understanding of the history, culture, and social experiences of various communities in the Asian continent on their own terms and within their specific contexts rather than only through the lens of the Anglo-American context.
2. To appreciate the complexities of Asia as both a place and an idea by exploring distinct communities within this broader category.

To fulfill the first objective, students are required to pursue experiences that would aid in accessing the specific contexts for and perspectives within communities in Asia. They will do so by gaining facility in a modern language indigenous to Asia equivalent to eight hours of college-level study or by participating in an approved study abroad program in a region within the Asian continent. Students are also required to take courses on Asia that substantially incorporate primary and secondary sources and/or voices indigenous to the region of study.

To fulfill the second objective, students are required to study various topics in Asian Studies from multidisciplinary perspectives. Moreover, the different categories of courses applicable to the certificate encourage students to take courses on communities in East, South, and Southeast Asia. Students may appreciate the distinct and unique insights and developments within each region, while also forming understandings of the complex ways in which these various regions connect with one another to shape the larger region as a whole. The "Transpacific Asia" category also allows for a study of how transpacific relations and movements of people and ideas are informing the larger category of Asia.

Students from any major are eligible for the Asian Studies certificate. The Asian Studies certificate would be particularly beneficial for students who are considering careers in foreign service, international business, education, international law, and non-governmental organizations. Students interested in pursuing graduate studies in fields related to Asian Studies would also benefit from this certificate.

Requirements

Requirements (24 hours):

At least half of the hours for the certificate must be completed in residence at Wheaton. This certificate has a language training/study abroad requirement.

Code	Title	Credits
Core:
HIST 293	Introduction to Asian Studies	4
Language Training or Study Abroad Requirement:		8
Faculty in a modern language indigenous to Asia (CHIN 101 and CHIN 102)* equivalent to eight hours of college-level study
- OR - An approved study abroad program in Asia. **
Electives:
Students must fulfill 12-20 credit hours from at least two of the following five categories. Students cannot exceed 12 hours from each category.
1. Language Courses:
CHIN 201	Intermediate Mandarin Chinese	4
CHIN 302	Chinese Through Scripture	4
CHIN 331	Chinese Conversation	4
CHIN 332	Chinese Grammar and Composition	4
CHIN 335	Business Chinese	4
CHIN 337	Readings of Chinese Culture and Society	4
2. East Asia - Humanities:
ENGL 121	Japanese Literature and Film	4
HIST 102	Exploring the Global Past (topic "Rise and Fall of Imperial Japan" OR "Exploring the Korean War")	4
HIST 335	The Construction of Modern Japan, 1800-1960	4
HIST 336	Modern Korea	4
3. East Asia - Social Sciences:
B EC 331	International Business	4
IR 302	Topics in International Politics (topic "Empire")	4
IR 347	East Asian Politics	4
IR 364	East Meets West	4
IR 367	International Law	4
PSCI 323	Chinese Political Thought	4
4. South and Southeast Asia:
ANTH 435	Power and Gender in Southeast Asia	4
CORE 356	AIS: Global Islam and Christian-Muslim Relations	4
HNGR 496	Internship in Development	4-8
5. Transpacific Asia:
CORE 362	AIS: Christianity - Asia to America	4
PSCI 328	Immigration	4
SOC 371	Asians in America	4
Total Credits		24

Elective options for the Asian Studies Certificate can include experimental courses, special topics courses that are offered on an occasional basis, and independent studies relevant to Asian Studies. Students must submit a petition to have such courses be approved as elective courses in relevant categories listed above, and the courses will be approved on a case-by-case basis. Examples of these courses include, but are not limited to, courses in Anthropology on South and Southeast Asia.

Courses in approved study abroad programs  need to be approved by the coordinator before they can be applied as Elective courses in relevant categories listed above.

* Heritage and native speakers may be exempt from this requirement if they can demonstrate Intermediate-level proficiency through a placement exam. Placement exams are available through the Department of Modern and Classical languages (<https://www.wheaton.edu/academics/programs/modern-and-classical-languages/>) or they can advise regarding other options to demonstrate proficiency.

-  Approved study abroad programs include Wheaton in China, Wheaton in Korea, Tokyo Christian University, Handong University, and HNGR. All other study abroad programs in Asia must be approved by the Director of Study Abroad in Global Program and Studies (GPS) and the Asian Studies coordinator.